Project One Idea

Cindy Shi

Series of Poems from Rupi Kaur

This project will illustrate the chapters in "the sun and her flowers" by Rupi Kaur.
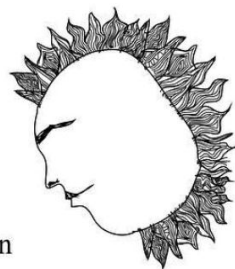

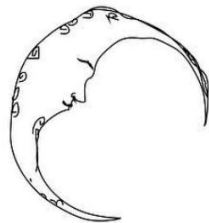

- Wilting
- Falling
- Rooting
- Rising
- Blooming

Inspirations

The Wilting

rise
said the moon
and the new day came the show must go on said the sun life does not stop for anybody it drags you by the legs whether you want to move forward or not
that is the gift
life will force you to forget how you long for them your skin will shed till there is not a single part of you left they've touched your eyes finally just your eyes not the eyes which held them you will make it to the end of what is only the beginning go on
open the door to the rest of it

time - rupi kaur

The Falling

let it go
let it leave
let it happen
nothing
in this world
was promised or belonged to you
anyway

all you own is yourself - rupi kaur

The Rooting

when they buried me alive
i dug my way
out of the ground
with palm and fist
i howled so loud
the earth rose in fear and the dirt began to levitate my whole life has been an uprising one burial after another

i will find my way out of you just fine - rupi kaur

The Rising

i do not need the kind of love that is draining
i want someone
who energizes me

- rupi kaur

The Blooming

the universe took its time on you crafted you to offer the world something different from everyone else when you doubt
how you were created you doubt an energy greater than us both irreplaceable - rupi kaur

Illustration inspirations

Objective

- To illustrate a storyline of the lifespan of a flower with poems found in the book
  - Easy to navigate
  - Create a calming mood
  - Release stress

Audience

- Anyone that is stressed and need a break

- People who are a fan of the book

- Anyone that is interested and wants to explore further

Content Requirements

- Illustrations of the story line
- Moving images (gifs)
- Little to no text
- Little to no colors
- No video or audio

Functional Requirements

-Easy to navigate from page to page

-Click and hover functions (pop-ups, or color change)

-Connected pages

* wants to try to make everything clickable (not very possible)